Media & Travel Information

Covering The Bulldogs

The University of Georgia sports communications office welcomes your interest in the Bulldog volleyball program. The sports communications office provides notes, statistics and media guides prior to home matches. Results will also be distributed after each home match.

Interviews

Georgia coaches and players are available for interviews by request and after a cooling off period following each match. Please submit requests at least one day in advance. Interviews are usually conducted after practice or after the team's strength and conditioning sessions. Phone interviews can also be arranged. Please contact Tanner Tedeschi in the sports communications office at 706-542-1621 for interview requests.

Georgiadogs.com & GXtra

Information on Georgia volleyball can be obtained at www.GeorgiaDogs.com. Each week, news releases, game notes and current statistics are updated. Also included are coach and player biographies and historical data for use by the media.

Georgia's website also offers a premium video and audio section called "GXtra" that gives Bulldog fans unprecedented access to Georgia's athletic program. GXtra is the online destination for exclusive LIVE & on-demand streaming video and audio straight to your computer. This broadband video channel is the ultimate place for Bulldog fans on the web!

Check the Upcoming Live Events page often to see the video and audio streams that will be available this season. The page is updated regularly to make sure fans never miss a minute of the action.

2009 Georgia Bulldogs

Joel McCartney and the Bulldogs have their sights set on reaching the NCAA Tournament in 2009

The Georgia volleyball program enters its third season under the direction of head coach Joel McCartney in 2009. McCartney guided Georgia to its biggest single-season turnaround with 17 wins in 2007. In 2008, McCartney's Bulldogs posted a second 17-win season including 10 Southeastern Conference victories, the most league wins by a Georgia squad since 2003. In 2009, McCartney and the Bulldogs look to continue the development of the program with a berth in the NCAA Tournament.

This year's team features just three upperclassmen, all juniors, three sophomores, two redshirt freshmen and four true freshmen. Despite being a youthful squad with no seniors, the Bulldogs return four regular starters plus their starting libero from 2008.

The Juniors:

Erika Clark, OH; Valentina Gonzalez, MH; Simone May, OH

"Erika Clark has been a two-year starter for us on the outside," McCartney said of Clark who earned freshmen All-SEC honors two seasons ago. "She is our ball-control, Steady-Eddy person out there on the court. You can always count on her to have that same game night-in and night-out. That's really an integral role to place on your floor."

"In our middle, M2 position, is Valentina Gonzalez," McCartney said. "Valentina is a smaller middle, but she's so exciting to watch because she's so explosive and so fast. We don't try to go one-on-one against bigger middle hitters with her, but we try to move her around as quickly as we can because that's her talent. She provides a lot of speed in our offense."

"Simone May, who has the most experience here in the program, is such a phenomenal leader in her work ethic and level of fitness," McCartney added.

The Sophomores:

Ann Dylla, MH; Kathleen Gates, S; Carla Tietz, DS/L

"Ann Dylla has done a tremendous job of really developing her game and gaining confidence," McCartney stated. "She has really taken her game up a notch. She's becoming much more powerful. I give a lot of credit to Mike Schweigert, our strength and conditioning coach, who has done a tremendous job over the spring and the summer in building up the strength levels of these young athletes coming up the ranks."

"Kathleen Gates returns as setter, and she was called on for some natural leadership in the setting position last year," McCartney said of Gates, who earned freshmen All-SEC honors in 2008. "But as a freshmen it's very difficult to lead from that class. She'll gain some experience and probably be a stronger asset for us in that role. Kathleen will set the offense and handle decision making for us in terms of which player to go to and when."

"In the libero role Carla Tietz will be providing the ball control for us," McCartney said. "She provides a lot of excitement to the game and leadership in that regard."

The Redshirt Freshmen:

Briana Bahr, OPP; Michele Simmons, MH

"One of the great advantages of last season was being able to take two very talented athletes in a 6-3 attacker in Michele Simmons and a 6-2, opposite left-handed attacker in Briana Bahr and redshirt them," McCartney said. "They are two very special athletes who were sort of behind the curve in the training process because they came from areas with just very small town club volleyball experience, but they are both phenomenal athletes who are coming on very strong. I wouldn't be surprised to see one or both of those athletes on our floor this year."

The Freshmen:

Nicole Choi, DS/L; Adria Fecteau, S/DS; Lauren Hutchinson, MH; Kathleen Luft, OH

"Finally we've been able to take one of the premier players in the state of Georgia and get her on our roster with Lauren Hutchinson coming in as a middle hitter," McCartney stated. "I'm not sure she'll immediately impact onto the floor for us, but she is a player of the future for us."

"Nicole Choi is another athlete from the state of Georgia, and she might see a spot role in some defensive specialty work and challenge for that libero role for sure," McCartney added.

"We spent the entire season last year with no backup setting role, so with Adria Fecteau coming to us from North Carolina we have the option now of having a back up setter and someone who can also challenge for the starting role," McCartney said. "We also have the option to move the offensive system into a six-two where we use both of the setters, or, and most likely, we can use Adria in a variety of ways. She's a very good defender, so we could use her in a defensive specialty role while she also gets setter training and works into that position."

"Kathleen Luft is a top-rated prep athlete out of the state of California, but unfortunately Kathleen tore her ACL in April," McCartney stated. "She's recovering spectacularly, but she's not going to be able to be on our court this fall and we'll have to redshirt her through the injury. The impact there is that really believed Kathleen could have probably slid into the position held by Maria Taylor last season, on the left side as our O1 attacker."

Q & A with Coach McCartney

What is your coaching philosophy?

"The absolute most important aspect to my life beyond faith and family is the Bulldog volleyball program. I want to be able to give every part of myself to building up the potential of everyone involved. I want to ensure each student-athlete has a great academic experience which will prepare them for a lifetime of possibility. Finally, I want to recruit the very best student-athletes and help them build character by teaching accountability and responsibility through the competitive experiences within our program."

What do you look for in a recruit?

"Georgia has a tradition of tough academics that will ensure a quality education and a meaningful degree. Because we place such an emphasis on being accountable and responsible, the program attracts student-athletes who have already been successful in the classroom. However, what is most important to me is how much potential a student-athlete has and how willing they are in growing that potential to the very highest level of achievement. Overall, we are looking for good citizens with exceptional potential. We want our athletes to respect themselves, the individuals in our program and the people of their community."

How exciting is it to be moving into new volleyball facilities at the Ramsey Student Center near the training and competition arena this season?

"It's been a long time coming. Since I took the job two and a half years ago, we've been planning this project, so there's been a lot of anticipation about a new space for not only our staff but for our entire program. It gives us offices that are adjacent to our training facility. It gives us a team theatre room where are athletes can come in with state-of-the-art scouting equipment to not only evaluate the teams we are playing but also their own skill evaluation on the things we are doing here daily in training and on the weekends in competition. It gives our athletes a renovated locker room space and a team lounge so that they can just have a place to call home, and that will be such a difference from what we've had. We've been all over east campus up to the main campus where the athletic facilities are located. We were really spread out. This gives us a central location to be together and be connected. "

What is the preseason mentality as you enter this season?

"Every season has been different and this will be my third, and the interesting part about this year is how young we are with four incoming freshmen, two redshirt freshmen who haven't seen the court, three sophomores, three juniors and no seniors on the roster. Leadership is going to be an issue and is something that we are the most focused on heading into the season, but what a talented group and what a hardworking bunch over the course of this last spring. We couldn't be more proud of the preparation and steps they have taken to make this season special."

How would you describe your coaching style?

"My coaching style is a very matter-of-fact style. I want to get on the floor and work extremely hard. I think the dividends of being able to put that kind of work in create some pretty special moments for us like beating Florida last year, which was something we hadn't done for 18 seasons. That put us in a place to be selected as an at-large team into the NCAA Tournament, and as disappointing as it was not to go, I think that intense style that we've incorporated as a staff is one of which an athlete can come in here and know exactly what the expectations are for the program. That is a style we've built over the last couple of years and it is one that I intend to continue to lead into the future. Our athletes are going to have to work for it, and they have to work incredibly hard. We are building something special here and I'm really excited for the future with that."

What kind of play can fans expect when they come to see the Bulldogs play this season?

"We are going to have to get a little bit faster because we lose Maria Taylor's power on the pin, and she was a bigger and more explosive athlete we could just throw the ball up to pretty high. This year we've got a smaller profiled athlete, but we are incredibly fast. We've got a setter who can run a faster styled offense, and we worked on that in the spring, and in the summer, the athletes have been working on that on their own through the open gyms and their training. Specifically, the middle has always been very quick for us, but I think you'll see the left and right pins running a much quicker offense than in the past. It's a little bit more risk, but there's a little more reward in that too if we become really acclimated into that system and get enough repetitions where we feel comfortable to take it into our season.

"It's free too! Georgia volleyball has the value of being able to bring the family to the Ramsey Student Center to have a pretty inexpensive, entertaining family atmosphere, and the venue for that is fantastic. From everything we do from start to finish, the product of our event is geared to the family. It's been really fun to see it grow over the last couple of years, but we are really expecting it to take off and get even bigger this year."

You mentioned the team being smaller this season. With that, how important will defensive play be in 2009?

"I think our emphasis going from this spring into the preseason and then into the season is going to be defensive and ball control oriented. If we fail in that part of the game, it won't matter what offensive systems we are running. I think the team is well aware of that, and we've trained with that mentality through the offseason. We're going to be very defensive minded."

Georgia's Coaches Pledge

"These student-athletes are entrusted to my care. I will train them to the best of my ability. I will develop them into smartly disciplined, physically fit, highly-trained athletes thoroughly indoctrined in love for the Georgia Bulldogs who represent the University of Georgia and the athletic program in the highest possible manner. I will encourage our athletes and insist that they perform to the best of their ability in the classroom as well as in the arena of competitive athletics. I will require of them, and demonstrate by my own example, the highest standards of integrity, personal conduct, morality, sportsmanship and professional skill."

Head Coach Joel McCartney

Joel McCartney
Head Coach
13th year overall
316-127 (.713)
3rd year at Georgia
34-27 (.557)

Head coach Joel McCartney enters his third season at the helm of the Georgia program in 2009. In his first two seasons at Georgia, he has guided the Bulldogs to a 34-27 record. In his first season at UGA in 2007, McCartney coached the Bulldogs to the biggest turnaround in school history, and in 2008, he directed the Bulldogs to the most Southeastern Conference victories by a Georgia squad since 2003.

Georgia went 17-14 in 2008 with a 10-10 record in SEC action as the Bulldog volleyball program continued to make positive strides under the guidance of McCartney, who entered the season poised to reach a career milestone of his own. With the Bulldogs' 3-0 defeat of Furman on August 31 in the Georgia Bulldog Invitational Tournament, McCartney achieved his 300th collegiate-career head coaching victory. The Bulldogs went on to wrap up non-conference play with a record of 7-4. The conference slate did not start out the way the Bulldogs had planned dropping their first four matches, but as the season unfolded it became clear that those contests came against four of the top five teams in the league. Nevertheless, Georgia quickly rebounded to win seven out of next eight matches including a streak of six straight. The six-consecutive SEC victories marked the longest league winning streak at UGA since 2003. Undoubtedly, the highlight of the season was the final victory in that winning streak as Georgia upset the No. 8-ranked Florida Gators in Athens, 3-2. The win by the Bulldogs snapped a 45-match losing streak to the Gators, which dated back 18 years to October of 1990. Furthermore, the victory marked the first time Georgia had defeated a ranked opponent since Sept. 7, 1995. McCartney finished his second-year at the helm of the Georgia program with a UGA winning-percentage of .557, which ranks as the second-best start to a Georgia coaching career after two seasons.

During the spring of 2008, McCartney's instilled winning ways from his first season at UGA continued to develop as the Bulldogs earned the inaugural SEC Coaches' Beach Volleyball Championship. Additionally, McCartney landed the nation's 30th-ranked recruiting class for the 2008 season according to PrepVolleyball.com, which marked the first-ever ranking in school history for a Georgia volleyball recruiting class.

The 2007 Bulldogs posted a 17-13 record following just a six-win campaign in the previous season, a program-best turnaround of 11 more wins. Georgia wasted no time in turning to those winning ways in 2007 by starting the season 8-0, tying the 1993 squad for the third-best start in school history. What was even more impressive with the 8-0 start was that all eight victories were shutouts, which tied a school record for consecutive shutouts. The Bulldogs also tied a school record for consecutive games won at 25 by taking the first game against Georgia Tech on Sept. 7, 2007. Georgia closed its non-conference schedule with a record of 9-1 including a tournament title at the Georgia Southern Invitational. The 9-1 mark was the best record for a UGA team heading into conference play since the 1992 team went 12-1 before its first Southeastern Conference contest. The 2007 Bulldogs then posted eight conference victories, the most league wins for the program since 2004. Georgia's 17 total wins and eight SEC wins surpassed the combined total number of overall and conference wins from both the 2005 and 2006 seasons.

The fifth head coach at Georgia since the program's inception in 1978, McCartney arrived in Athens with a career 282 wins in just 382 matches coached, making him one of the nation's winningest active collegiate coaches. After becoming the first Georgia coach to open his Bulldog career on a winning streak and finishing with 17 wins in each of his first two seasons at UGA, McCartney's career record now stands at 316-127 (.713), making him the nation's 22nd winningest active NCAA Division I coach.

McCartney accepted the reigns at Georgia after leading Winthrop University to a 167-49 record in six years, including a 34-3 campaign in 2006 and a fifth-straight appearance in the NCAA Tournament. Boasting a winning percentage of .773 while at his former university in South Carolina, McCartney's Eagles won five-consecutive Big South Conference Championships in his tenure with the Winthrop program.

McCartney's sixth and final season at Winthrop in 2006 was arguably his most successful. Using the leadership of only three seniors, the Eagles exploded for 34 wins and just three losses. In addition to capturing their fifth Big South Conference championship, McCartney also led his team to the NCAA Division I Tournament, where the Eagles faced the University of Northern Iowa in the first round. Despite his team falling to the Panthers 3-1, McCartney developed Winthrop, which has an enrollment of less than 7,000, into one of the nation's toughest competitors.

McCartney has been involved in coaching volleyball since 1984 with experience as a head coach and an assistant at the Division I level and as a head coach at the NAIA level. In addition to his collegiate coaching experience, McCartney has helped develop some of the nation's top young volleyball talent as a coach and clinician for the USA National Development and Collegiate Volleyball Camps for over 20 years.

Additionally, McCartney served as a founding member of the AVCA Head Coaches Committee from 2001-07 and coached USA High Performance camps and clinics as well as USA National Team Tryouts throughout the country. He also served as a voting member of the NCAA Division I Top-25 polling committee from 2002-07.

McCartney, a native of Papillion, Nebraska, started collegiate coaching as an assistant at Eastern Kentucky University. He served in that role before accepting the first assistant coaching position at Indiana State University from 1993-95. McCartney then took over the head coaching position of the Nebraska Tornados, a National Volleyball Association Professional League team, from 1996-98. His 1998 team captured the NVA national championship.

During his stint as the Nebraska Tornados head coach, McCartney served as the head coach at Bellevue University (1996-2000). He led the NAIA program to a 115-51 overall record, recruited and coached several academic and athletic All-Americans and brought the program to national prominence. McCartney, in just four short seasons, became the winningest coach in Bellevue University history.

McCartney left Bellevue University to return to an assistant position at the Division I level. He accepted a role at the University of Oklahoma as the first-assistant coach. His responsibility under the mentorship of his former college teammate, Kalani Mahi, was assisting in the on-court training and recruitment of student-athletes.

Since starting his head coaching journey in Nebraska at Bellevue University, McCartney has built a resume that any collegiate coach would envy. A .713 winning percentage, 316 career wins and five NCAA Tournament appearances.

McCartney also played on the collegiate and professional levels. He was both an Academic and Collegiate Club All-American while playing for Graceland College from 1983-87. He went on to play for the USAV Open National Champions, Nike Molten, in 1988 before competing professionally from 1989-91 in Umea, Sweden for Team IKSU.

A 1983 graduate of Nebraska's Papillion High School, McCartney completed his undergraduate degree in Business Administration with an emphasis in Economics and Finance from Graceland College in 1987. He then earned a master's degree in sports administration from Eastern Kentucky University in 1992. He is married to the former Andrea Viviano from Kansas City and has a daughter Kate, born June 10, 2004, and son James, born May 18, 2006.

Chad Hanson
Assistant Coach

Chad Hanson enters his second season with the Bulldogs after joining the Georgia volleyball staff as an assistant coach on Jan. 29, 2008. In his first season with the program in 2008, the Bulldogs went 17-14 overall and 10-10 in Southeastern Conference action.

Hanson, a native of Pullman, Washington, joined the Bulldogs after serving in a similar position at the University of Iowa from 2004-07.

During his three seasons with the Hawkeyes, Hanson also worked with the Iowa Rockets Volleyball Club program. Prior to joining Iowa, Hanson was a volunteer coach at the University of Idaho in 2003, helping the Vandals advance to the NCAA Tournament. While at Idaho, he worked at length with the scout team to model opposing teams' offensive attacks. Hanson held the same position at Washington State University in 2002, helping guide WSU to an Elite Eight appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

From 2001-03, Hanson was the head coach at Colton High School in Colton, Wash., and the Club Director for the Palouse Juniors Volleyball Club program. For the Palouse Juniors, Hanson hired both head coaches and assistant coaches for each of the club teams, and he started the first-ever boys' volleyball team for the club. At Colton High School, Hanson re-introduced the junior varsity program to the school and also introduced a summer volleyball camp.

Hanson played as an outside hitter for Washington State's club team in 1998 earning the Pacific Intercollegiate Volleyball Association Championship and finishing as Bronze Medalists at the NIRSA National Division-I Championships. From 1995-97, Hanson was an outside hitter for the University of California-Irvine.

Hanson earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Athletic Training while at the Washington State University in December of 2000, and he became a Certified Athletic Trainer through the National Athletic Trainers' Association in May of 2001.

Chad and his wife Karla have a daughter named Piper Hanson.

Briana McCarthy
Assistant Coach

Briana McCarthy, a native of Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, enters her second season with the Bulldogs. She joined Georgia as an assistant coach in 2008, and in her first season with the team the Bulldogs went 17-14 overall and 10-10 in Southeastern Conference action.

McCarthy came to Georgia from The Ohio State University, where she was a four-year letter winner for the Buckeyes from 2003-07.

McCarthy, who was a three-time team captain for the Buckeyes, played in 104 games during her senior season in 2007 displaying a multitude of skill assets by tallying 227 kills, 630 assists and 33 service aces while also coming away with 207 digs and 99 blocks, including 17 solo blocks.

Additionally, McCarthy has coached volleyball on the club level most recently with the Columbus Volleyball Academy from 2007-08. She has also worked with Matchpoint VBC (2004-06), Ohio State Nike Camps (2004-07) and All-American Volleyball Camps (2004-07).

In 2007, McCarthy also served as an intern for the Columbus Crew soccer promotional team, and she worked as a student assistant for the OSU facility management team.

McCarthy earned a degree in Sports and Leisure Studies from The Ohio State University in 2008.

Andrea McCartney, Volunteer Coach

Andrea McCartney, a native of Kansas City, Missouri, enters her second year as a volunteer coach for the Bulldogs in 2009 after helping the Bulldogs go 17-14 overall and 10-10 in Southeastern Conference action in 2009.

McCartney previously spent five seasons as an assistant coach for the Winthrop Eagles from 2001-06. Prior to her tenure at Winthrop, McCartney served as a volunteer coach at the University of Oklahoma in 2000. She has eight years of assistant coaching experience at the professional, collegiate and the junior development levels.

McCartney served as an assistant coach at Bellevue University for the four years (1996-99) that her husband, head coach Joel McCartney, led the program. The two have joined efforts in coaching since 1996. She also served as an assistant to the Nebraska Tornados, a NVA league professional team, in 1998. McCartney developed her own coaching clinics for youth and served as a junior development head coach for the Midlands Volleyball Club from 1997-99

From 1992-96, McCartney was a letterwinner as an outside hitter for Bellevue University. She also played one season for the Nebraska Tornados in the NVA Professional League as a defensive specialist in 1997.

Mike Schweigert, Strength Coach

Mike Schweigert is in his fourth full year in 2009 as Georgia's strength and conditioning coach. He was hired in 2005 as a graduate assistant strength coach for the Bulldogs' Olympic sports teams prior to being promoted to full-time status. He currently works with the Georgia volleyball team as well as the men's basketball team and the track and field teams.

A native of the suburban Chicago town of Niles, Illinois, Schweigert is a 2003 graduate of Indiana University. While earning his bachelor's degree in Kinesiology, with an emphasis as a Fitness Specialist, he served as an intern in the Hoosiers' athletic department. He worked directly with IU's men's basketball, volleyball and track and field teams.

Upon graduation from Indiana, Schweigert returned close to home for eight months as a strength & conditioning intern with the Chicago Bulls basketball club, where he worked with former head strength coach Al Vermeil and current coach Erik Helland. In August of 2004, he left the Bulls to become a strength & conditioning graduate assistant at Northern Illinois University. While in DeKalb, Ill., Schweigert supervised the training of several Huskie sports, including soccer, men's & women's tennis, as well as men's & women's golf.

UGA Athletic Administration

University President

Dr. Michael F. Adams was named the 21st president of the University of Georgia on June 11, 1997. He immediately focused on securing UGA's future as one of America's premier public research universities.

Widely recognized as a leader in higher education administration, he also has held a number of significant leadership positions in intercollegiate athletics. He is currently the chairman of the NCAA Executive Committee, the highest governance body in the NCAA. It is composed of 13 campus presidents and chancellors who oversee association-wide issues. The committee is charged with ensuring that each division operates consistently with the basic purposes, fundamental policies and general principles of the association.

He has been chair of the Southeastern Conference and is a member of the Knight Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics. A college athlete himself – he lettered in track at Lipscomb University – he values athletics as an important part of the college experience for athletes and non-athletes alike.

Dr. Adams recently completed a term as chairman of the Association of Public and Land-Grant Universities, formerly known as the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges. He is the only person to have served as chair of the American Council on Education, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities and APLU. He has been chair of the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the accrediting body for higher education in the southern United States, and in 2005 received the James T. Rogers Distinguished Leadership Award, the highest honor given by the agency.

A strategic plan, completed in 2001 at his direction, identified three themes for UGA's growth in the first decade of the 21st century: Building the New Learning Environment, Maximizing Research Opportunities and Competing in a Global Economy. Under Dr. Adams' leadership, student quality has risen steadily and the University of Georgia has been ranked as one of America's top 20 public universities for eight of the past 10 years by U.S. News & World Report. External funding for research, public service and instruction totals more than $200 million annually. Private giving to the university is at its highest level ever; UGA completed the Archway to Excellence campaign on June 30, 2008 with more than $630 million, well above the $500 million goal.

The total value of construction initiated during his tenure approaches $1 billion, financed through the innovative use of state, federal, internal and private funds, and includes the Student Learning Center; new residence halls and a dining commons on East Campus; the Complex Carbohydrate Research Center; the Paul Coverdell Center for Biomedical and Health Sciences; the Animal Health Research Center; the new Lamar Dodd School of Art and an expansion of Sanford Stadium and the Women's Athletic Complex. More recent facility additions and improvements include the new Dodd School of Art, the expansion of the Tate Student Center and an addition to the Georgia Museum of Art. Moore College, Candler Hall, Phi Kappa Hall and Myers Hall have been renovated and Old College, the University's first building, has been renovated as the home of the Franklin College of Arts and Sciences.

He holds a bachelor's degree in speech and history from David Lipscomb College. He earned a master's in political communications and a doctorate in political communications, with a cognate emphasis in educational administration, from The Ohio State University. At OSU, he was named a University Fellow, the highest academic recognition given by the graduate school. He holds an academic appointment as a professor of speech communication at UGA.

Dr. Adams was born in Montgomery, Alabama and attended public schools in Georgia from first grade through ninth, graduating from high school in Chattanooga in 1966. He began his professional career on the communication faculty at Ohio State, later serving as vice president for university affairs at Pepperdine University. He was president of Centre College in Danville, Kentucky for nine years before coming to Georgia. He also served as chief of staff for Senator Howard Baker and as an aide to Governor Lamar Alexander of Tennessee.

"The people of the state of Georgia deserve a flagship institution every bit as good as the citizens of Virginia or Michigan or California or North Carolina," Dr. Adams said when he was named president. "I am committed to making the University of Georgia that kind of institution."

Damon Evans
Director Of Athletics

UGA letter winner and double degree holder Damon Evans was selected as Director of Athletics in December 2003, and assumed the duties officially on July 1, 2004. At the time he was just 34 years of age, and one of the youngest athletic directors in the country. However, he had already established himself as an up and coming athletic administrator. Evans has received several honors including the Street and Smith's Sports Business Journal "40 Under 40 Award" for 2004, 2005, and 2007, the UGA Terry College of Business Award as the "Outstanding Young Alumnus", and Sports Illustrated's "101 Most Influential Minorities in Sports".

Today, Evans oversees a nationally recognized program with 21 intercollegiate sports teams involving more than 600 student-athletes, an $84 million budget and a 260 person staff. He is a member of several Southeastern Conference and NCAA Committees, Chairman of the NCAA Division I Leadership Council, and is involved in volunteer and community service roles across the state of Georgia.

He was born in Nebraska, but spent much of his youth in Gainesville, Georgia where he graduated from Gainesville High School after a stellar career both athletically and academically. During his football career at Georgia (1988-92), Evans earned a starting assignment four consecutive seasons, played in three bowl games ('89 Peach, '91 Independence, and '92 Citrus) and was a member of the '91 and '92 teams that won nine and ten games, respectively. He earned two degrees from the University of Georgia, receiving a bachelor's degree in finance in 1992 and a master's of education in sports management in 1994.

Evans joined the staff at the University of Missouri, serving as Director of Compliance and Operations (1994-95). After holding the positions as a Director and Assistant Commissioner for Eligibility and Compliance Services at the Southeastern Conference (1995-98), he returned to his alma mater. Before his appointment as UGA Director of Athletics, he held titles of Associate and Senior Associate A.D. for Internal Affairs.

He is married to the former Kerri Budd of Atlanta and they have two children, Cameron and Kennedy.

Setting the Standard for Intercollegiate Athletics in Women's Volleyball

The Southeastern Conference continues to flourish as a solid and competitive league in women's collegiate volleyball.

In the last two decades, the SEC has made stellar contributions in volleyball. The conference has sent at least two SEC teams to the NCAA Tournament in every season the last 19 years. The SEC had a team reach the Final Four seven of the 10 seasons in the '90s with the league having a team advance to the regional final nine of those 10 seasons. Since 2000, the SEC has had a team reach the Final Four three times and regional final four times.

In 2008, Florida captured its 18th ever SEC Championship and made its 19th NCAA Tournament appearance and advanced to the regional semi-finals. In all, four teams from the SEC made the NCAA Tournament, including Florida, Kentucky, LSU and Tennessee.

Since the inaugural SEC volleyball championship in 1979-80, many changes have occurred in the conference with volleyball. The addition of Arkansas and South Carolina to the league in 1991 brought the divisional format to the sport with five teams competing in the Eastern Division and six teams in the Western Division.

In 2009, the SEC entered into an unprecedented TV agreement with ESPN that will provide exclusive coverage of SEC athletics. In the arrangement, SEC volleyball will now be broadcast on three different platforms: ESPNU, FS South/Southwest/Sun Sports and CSS. Live SEC volleyball coverage can now reach into 46 million homes nationwide on ESPNU, and in the SEC nine-state region, 22 million homes on FS South/Southwest/Sun Sports, and 7 million homes on CSS.

SEC Notes

- The 2008 season marked the 19th consecutive season in which the SEC has placed at least two teams in the NCAA Tournament.
- Four SEC teams earned berths to the 2008 NCAA Tournament.
- Four teams posted 20-plus win seasons. Kentucky led with 26, Florida with 25, Tennessee with 22 and South Carolina with 21.
- LSU claimed the Western Division crown in 2008 for the fourth consecutive season, with Florida earning the Eastern Division championship for the 14th consecutive season.
- Florida captured its 18th SEC Championship and advanced to the NCAA regional semi-finals.
- In 2008, Kelsey Bowers (Florida) was selected to the ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America Team (Second Team) for a total of six SEC selections all-time. Nine student-athletes were named to ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District teams for a total of 46 all-time.
- Freshman Kelly Murphy (Florida) was named AVCA Third-Team All-America, seven were named AVCA Honorable Mention All-America and 14 (including six honorable mention) players were named to the AVCA Division I All -South Region Team.
- Freshman Kelly Murphy (Florida, S/RS) was named AVCA South Region Freshman of the Year and AVCA National Freshman of the Year, and Tennessee Head Coach Rob Patrick was named AVCA South Region Coach of the Year.
- In the past 18 years, 1,049 student-athletes have earned selection to the SEC Academic Honor Roll.

The University of Georgia

Chartered by the Georgia General Assembly Jan. 27, 1785, in Savannah, The University of Georgia is America's first state chartered university and the birthplace of the American system of public higher education.

Two men who were leaders of the early University of Georgia also signed the United States Constitution. Abraham Baldwin, who wrote UGA's charter and was the institution's first president, and William Few, a member of the Board of Trustees, signed the Constitution on behalf of Georgia at the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1787.

· UGA is among the top schools in three major rankings of American universities for educational value.

·UGA ranked first among national universities, both public and private, in pay-back ratio, according to the January 2008 issue of Smart Money magazine. The magazine, published by the Wall Street Journal, quantified the long-term value of education based on tuition costs and graduates' earning power at different stages in their lives. UGA's payback ratio is 338%.

· UGA is ranked 20th among public universities in the 2009 U.S. News & World Report "Best Colleges" issue. U.S. News has ranked UGA 22nd or better for nine years in a row.

· Kiplinger's Magazine ranks UGA 4th on its list of best values among 100 public colleges and universities in America.

· UGA was 10th on Princeton Review's 2004 list of the 25 Most Connected Campuses, a ranking of universities with the best technological capabilities for teaching, learning and communicating.

· U.S. News & World Report ranks the Terry College of Business's MBA program 49th among more than 500 accredited MBA programs in the country. The rankings are based on reputation, student selectivity, placement success, faculty resources and research activity.

· UGA has had 21 Rhodes Scholars including six since 1996. UGA was the only public university in America with two Rhodes Scholars in 2007.

· UGA ranks fifth nationally in the number of students studying abroad.

·UGA is home of the Peabody Awards, presented annually for excellence in television and radio news, entertainment and children's programming. The Peabody archives, housed at UGA, contain some of the best radio and television programs produced in the last six decades.

·The Eugene P. Odum School of Ecology, the first stand-alone academic school in the world devoted specifically to the study of ecology, began operation at UGA on July 1, 2007.

·In addition to its status as a land-grant institution, the University of Georgia is one of 30 institutions in the U.S. to be designated a Sea Grant College. In 1980, the University of Georgia became the 15th institution to attain Sea Grant status - a recognition of excellence in marine research, education and advisory services.

· The School of Law is tied for 32nd among the nation's 100 top accredited law schools in rankings compiled by U.S. News & World Report. The school is tied for 11th among the nation's public law schools and is one of the top four public law schools in the South.

· The 229 first-year students who enrolled in the School of Law in 2008 had a median score on the Law School Admission Test of 163, placing them near the top 10 percent of test-takers nationwide.

·The College of Veterinary Medicine ranks 12th among the nation's veterinary schools and the College of Pharmacy is ranked 22nd in rankings compiled by U.S. News & World Report.

· In 2008, UGA concluded the largest and most successful fund-raising effort in its 223-year history when the Archway to Excellence campaign ended with a total of $653.6 million.

· Construction was recently completed on the expansion of the Tate Center, with a 500-space parking deck on the bottom two floors. The new Lamar Dodd School of Art building on East Campus opened in the fall of 2008. An expansion of the Pharmacy building is expected to be completed in 2009. The next major projects are an expansion of the Georgia Museum of Art and the construction of a Special Collections Library on Hull Street.

The most dynamic part of the University in recent years has been east campus. The Ramsey Student Center, named the country's best college student activities center by Sports Illustrated, is the hub of east campus. East campus now features a new series of dormitories and a dining hall that are home to UGA volleyball student-athletes. The newly-completed $102 million dollar dorms hold up to 1,200 students in two- and four-bedroom apartments with private baths.

The Ramsey Student Center

The Home of Georgia Volleyball

The University of Georgia's Ramsey Student Center for Physical Activities is where the Georgia Bulldogs play their home matches. The nation's largest on-campus facility for recreation and fitness, the Ramsey Center, features a three-court volleyball arena that is utilized by the Bulldogs for practices and competition. For home matches, retractable bleachers are extended on both sides of center court for a seating capacity of 1,925.

In 2009, new additions were added to the volleyball area of the Ramsey Center with the program's coaches moving into new offices, the addition of a video lounge, a player's lounge that features a sitting area, a wi-fi bar and a nutrition station. A new training room and visitor's locker room were built as well, and the Georgia locker room was remodeled.

In addition to lively crowds, Georgia's home matches feature the Redcoat Pep Band, UGA Cheerleaders and Georgia mascot Spike!

UGA Athletics Facilities

Sanford Stadium

On Saturdays in the fall, more than 93,000 fans watch the Bulldogs play "between the hedges." Sanford Stadium also played host to the Olympic soccer finals in 1996.

Equestrian Complex

Georgia's equestrian program was founded in 2002, and in 2009, the Bulldogs moved into their new facility, a 109-acre layout once known as High Point Farms in Bishop, Ga., approximately 12 miles from campus.

Dan Magill Tennis Complex

Georgia's men's and women's teams have combined for eight national championships, and the site also includes the ITA Tennis Hall Of Fame.

Stegeman Coliseum

Georgia's basketball and gymnastics teams compete in Stegeman Coliseum.

Coliseum Training Facility

The Coliseum Training Facility, built at a cost of $30 million dollars, opened in August of 2007 provides men's and women's basketball as well as gymnastics with their own practice gyms, locker rooms and office space. The facility also features a spacious weight room that can house many different sports at any given time.

At the 1990 SEC Championship, the facility was renamed in honor of the former Georgia athlete/coach and 1936 Olympic gold medalist.

SEC Coaches Beach Volleyball Championships

The Southeastern Conference Coaches Beach Volleyball Championships have been held during the spring season the past two years.

All of the 11 volleyball teams in the SEC have participated in the event each year vying for the Commissioners Cup, which is awarded to the institution that earns the most points in pool play. In the pool play format, there are four different levels of competition in which each school can enter beach doubles teams. The four levels of pool play have been named for former SEC Commissioners Roy Kramer (Level 1), Harvey Schiller (Level 2), Boyd McWhorter (Level 3) and Bernie Moore (Level 4). Each team earns points for their respective school towards the Commissioners Cup based on its record in its pool. Matches in pool play consist of two sets played to 21 points per set with no cap on scoring. The school with the most points at the end of pool play is awarded the Cup.

Following pool play, all teams advance to playoffs within their respective levels and are seeded according to pool play results.

In the inaugural SEC Coaches Beach Volleyball Championships, held April 11-12, 2008, in Gainesville, Fla., the 11 SEC schools sent 40 teams of two to compete and it was the Georgia Bulldogs who earned the Commissioner's Cup.

In 2009, the SEC Coaches Beach Volleyball Championships were held in Siesta Key, Fla., as part of an event titled "Fiesta On Siesta Key" that also featured the Collegiate Beach Volleyball Challenge. A total of 96 teams from 23 schools participated in the two tournaments. While South Carolina earned the second edition of the Commissioner's Cup, the Bulldogs once again made a strong showing by earning a second-place finish in the final team standings.

Strength & Conditioning / Sports Medicine

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

Developing Champions...Behind The Scenes

The success of Georgia volleyball depends not only on in-season, on-field performance, but also on the year-round development of strength and conditioning skills. With top-flight personnel as well as unbeatable facilities, Georgia has the ability to give one-on-one attention to players and help them reach their potential as athletes and volleyball players.

Strength training, supervised by Mike Schweigert, is a combination of weight training and sport-specific exercises. In August of 2007, Georgia opened the Coliseum Training Facility (pictured below) adjacent to Stegeman Coliseum. The multi-million dollar Training Facility provides the Georgia volleyball team with a fully equipped state-of-the-art weight room. The strength training program is designed to increase strength and joint stability. Joel McCartney's squad also visits the sand pits, located next to Georgia's track, for preseason training and conditioning.

SPORTS MEDICINE

The goal of the sports medicine team is two-fold: the prevention and care of injuries. Benjamin Franklin once said, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This concept is just as important today in sports medicine as it was over 200 years ago. Prevention of injuries is accomplished through pre-participation physical exams, preventative maintenance, rehab programs, taping, bracing and padding, and education.

When injuries do occur, the role of the sports medicine team is to promptly evaluate, diagnose and provide proper care for those injuries. The goal in the event of an injury is to return the athlete to his or her previous performance level as quickly, and as safely, as possible. But when an athlete is injured, his or her best interests are the primary focus of the sports medicine team.

Balance in Athletics & Academics

Rankin M. Smith

Rankin M. Smith, Sr. Student-Athlete Academic Center

In the fall of 2008, the University of Georgia welcomed the most academically qualified freshmen class in UGA history.

2008 UGA Freshmen

- Just more than 4,800 total students from a record-high 17,300 applicants
- 1,253 average SAT score
- 3.80 average high school GPA
- 53% of the 2008 freshman class were in the top 10 percent of their graduating high school class.

As the University of Georgia's academic curriculum has become much more rigorous, the need for an extensive learning center, complete with adequate computer facilities and tutorial services, is necessary for ongoing academic success of UGA student-athletes. Dedicated in November, 2002, the new $7.2 million Rankin M. Smith, Sr. Student-Athlete Academic Center provides Georgia student-athletes with the most modern and impressive center in college athletics. The 30,000 square-foot center includes computer labs, tutorial rooms, conference centers, counselors' offices, lecture hall, student lounge and banquet area among other things. It is named for the late Rankin M. Smith, UGA graduate and former owner of the Atlanta Falcons, and made possible by a gift from members of the Smith family.

"The Rankin Smith Center is definitely a point of pride for the Athletic Association. We are fortunate to have a state-of-the-art academic facility that enables us to assist our student-athletes with their academic endeavors!"

Preparation for Success / Endowments

The academic life of Georgia volleyball players is important and is a major focus in the overall experience of student-athletes at UGA. The academic atmosphere is one which encourages learning, growth in personal and career goals and assisting others in becoming the best they can be.

Graduation is the focus of Georgia's student-athletes as they prepare for life after college - and after volleyball.

ENDOWMENTS ENSURE THE FUTURE OF GEORGIA ATHLETICS

The Athletic Scholarship Endowment Program was instituted to allow supporters of the University of Georgia Athletic Association to invest in the educational opportunities of UGA student-athletes. The program is vital to the future of Georgia Athletics by providing the long-term solution of keeping pace with escalating expenses. A gift to establish a scholarship provides income towards funding a scholarship each year and permanently memorializes the donor or any individual in whose honor the scholarship is named. A full scholarship is endowed through a gift of $150,000.

The volleyball program at Georgia has four recipients of scholarship endowments in 2009. Leon and Vickie Farmer (pictured left), of Athens, Ga., endowed the first volleyball scholarship to benefit a student-athlete who is pursuing a degree at the University and represents the University on and off the court in a respectable manner, and the 2009 recipient is junior Simone May. The Michael A. Kahn family (pictured right), of Charlotte, N.C., has endowed two volleyball scholarships to show their support for Georgia's overall athletic program, and the 2009 recipients of those scholarships are sophomores Ann Dylla and Kathleen Gates. The fourth scholarship endowment for volleyball in 2009 is the Dyan Smoltz Family Women's Athletic Scholarship with freshman Lauren Hutchinson as the recipient.

For more information on the Scholarship Endowment Program or other giving opportunities, please contact the UGA Development Office at 706-542-9220.

CHAMPS/Life Skills

This program focuses on five commitments made by the University of Georgia to foster the growth and development of student-athletes.

A Commitment to Academic Excellence... ensures that each student-athlete will have the opportunity to excel in his/her chosen field of study and that the athletic programs will provide services to support and enhance the academic success of student-athletes.

A Commitment to Athletic Excellence... ensures that each student-athlete will be provided facilities, coaching staff, and support services that will enable each to excel in a broad program of sports sponsored by the university. The fundamental principals of these programs will be based on a commitment to sportsmanship, equity, fair play, and integrity.

A Commitment to Personal Development... ensures that each student-athlete participating in a CHAMPS/Life Skills Program will be provided opportunities to focus on personal growth issues such as values clarification, goal setting, fiscal responsibility, decision making and stress management. Each of these components will be focused toward developing a healthy lifestyle.

A Commitment to Service... is our challenge to student-athletes to give back to communities and individuals who are in need. With a clearly defined program of service, our student-athletes will be given opportunities to develop the foundation for a lifelong commitment of volunteerism.

A Commitment to Career Development... places a priority on preparing for life after college sports. The program acquaints students with the job search process, provides networking opportunities and ultimately assists with job placement. As our programs work toward the development of the total person, the ultimate goal is to develop individuals who will have rewarding careers and productive life-styles.

The Legacy of Uga

In the last 100 years of intercollegiate athletics, Georgia's Uga has established himself as the nation's most well-known mascot.

Owned by the Frank W. "Sonny" Seiler family of Savannah, Georgia, since Uga I first graced the campus in 1956, each of the Uga mascots is awarded a varsity letter in the form of a plaque, identical to those presented to all Georgia athletes.

As determined and published by the Pittsburgh Press, Georgia is the only major college that actually buries its mascots within the confines of the stadium. Epitaphs to the dogs are inscribed in bronze, and before each home game flowers are placed on their graves.

Uga VII

For the past 20 years, Uga's jerseys have been custom-made at the beginning of each season from the same material used for the players' jerseys. Uga also has been defined by his spiked collar, a symbol of the position which he holds.

Uga's on-field home is a permanent air conditioned doghouse located next to the cheerleaders' platform, providing comfort in the heat of August and September.

UGA VII, born Loran's Best, was introduced to the University of Georgia and Bulldog fans on Saturday, Aug. 30, 2008, during pre-game ceremonies of the Bulldogs' season opener against Georgia Southern.

Uga I

The Uga line began with Uga I, born Hood's Ole Dan. Uga I was given to Cecelia Seiler by a friend, Frank Heard of Columbus. The practice of having Uga wear a red jersey on the sideline at games began during his reign, which lasted from 1956-66.

Uga IV

Uga IV, born Seiler's Uga Four, appeared at the Heisman Trophy banquet with Herschel Walker in 1982, the first mascot ever invited to the ceremony. Following his reign from 1981-89, Uga IV was declared "Dog of the Decade" by Vince Dooley in 1991.

Uga II

Uga II, born Ole Dan's Uga, took over at Homecoming, 1966. As he was led to midfield at Sanford Stadium, the student body erupted in a cheer that was picked up by the entire stadium, "Damn Good Dog!" His reign lasted until 1972.

Uga V

Born Uga IV's Magillicuddy II and reigning from 1990-99, Uga V appeared on the cover of Sports Illustrated, which proclaimed him the nation's best college mascot. Uga V also appeared in Clint Eastwood's "Midnight In The Garden Of Good And Evil."

Uga III

Uga III, born Seiler's Uga Three, was present for Georgia football's finest moment as Herschel Walker guided the Bulldogs to the 1980 national championship. Uga III reigned from 1972-80, retiring on the 100th football game of his career.

Uga VI

Uga VI, born Uga V's Watchagot Loran, reigned from 1999-2008. Uga VI was featured in an Emmy-winning episode of Turner South's Liars and Legends and as part of a college football segment on NBC Nightly News.

Georgia Traditions

Bulldogs

Many old timers say Georgia acquired the nickname, "Bulldogs," because of the strong ties with Yale. Georgia's first president, Abraham Baldwin, was a Yale man and the early buildings on campus were designed from blueprints of the same building at Yale. But on Nov. 3, 1920, Morgan Blake of the Atlanta Journal wrote about school nicknames and said, "The Georgia Bulldogs would sound good because there is a certain dignity about a bulldog, as well as ferocity." After a 0-0 tie with Virginia in Charlottesville on Nov. 6, 1920, Atlanta Constitution writer Cliff Wheatley used the name "Bulldogs" in his story five times. The name has been used ever since.

Silver Britches

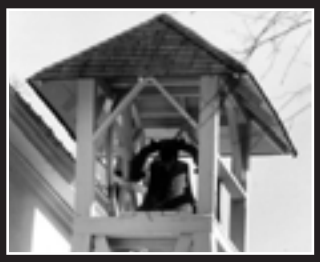
Silver Britches were an innovation of Coach Wally Butts, who took over as head coach in 1939. The handsome pants, complimented by a bright red jersey, made for a striking uniform. Through the years, fans referred to the Bulldogs' silver britches in their chants and on banners, but the phrase really caught on in the early 1950s with a cheer, banners and colorful vests that proclaimed "Go You Silver Britches." Coach Vince Dooley redesigned the uniform when he came in 1964 and used white pants; however, he re-instituted the silver britches in 1980 just prior to Georgia's national championship season.

How 'Bout Them Dogs!

This is a slogan of recent vintage, but one that has become a battle cry of Bulldog fans probably because of its obvious grammatical slur. It first surfaced during the 1970s, especially during the 1978 season when the Bulldogs posted several come-from-behind victories. It gained national attention and exposure when Georgia won the national championship in 1980. A major wire-service used the phrase in its story of Georgia's victory over Notre Dame.

The Chapel Bell

The ringing of the chapel bell after a Georgia victory is a tradition that continues even though freshmen are no longer ordered to do the chore. In the 1890s, the playing field was located only yards from the Chapel and first-year students were compelled to ring the bell until midnight in celebration of a Bulldog victory. Today, students, alumni, and townspeople still rush to the Chapel to ring the bell after a gridiron victory.



The Arch

The historic Arch which sits on the edge of North campus was installed in 1864. For years, freshmen were forbidden to walk under the Arch. Violators risked punishment from upperclassmen. Once rigidly enforced, the tradition of hazing of freshmen became passe'. However, many freshmen, learning of the tradition during orientation or from other sources, still choose to honor the century-old tradition.

Glory, Glory

Among the University's oldest and most lasting traditions is the school fight song, "Glory, Glory," which is sung to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." It was sung at games in the 1890s, but arranged in its present form by Georgia's immortal musician-composer Hugh Hodgson in 1915.

Between The Hedges

A reference to Sanford Stadium that dates back to the early 1930s. The famous English privet hedges that surround Sanford Stadium's playing field were only one foot high when the stadium was dedicated in 1929 and were protected by a wooden fence. It was natural for a clever sports writer, referring to an upcoming home game, to observe "that the Bulldogs will have their opponent 'between the hedges.'" At least one old-timer says the phrase was first coined by legendary Atlanta sportswriter Grantland Rice.

Bulldogs Continue To Build In McCartney's Second Year

Under the guidance of second-year Georgia head coach Joel McCartney, the Bulldog volleyball program continued to make positive strides on the court in 2008. The Bulldogs posted an overall record of 17-14 that included a 10-10 mark in Southeastern Conference matches, and the 10 league wins were the most by a Georgia squad since 2003.

After leading the Georgia program to its biggest single-season turnaround in 2007, McCartney was poised to reach a career milestone of his own in 2008. With the Bulldogs' 3-0 defeat of Furman on August 31 in the Georgia Bulldog Invitational Tournament McCartney achieved his 300th collegiate-career head coaching victory. Helping him earn that win were freshman setter Kathleen Gates and middle hitter Valentina Gonzalez, who were named to the all-tournament team.

The Bulldogs also played in two other tournaments during their non-conference slate, the Duke Invitational and the Texas Invitational. At the Duke Invitational, senior outside hitter Maria Taylor recorded a 32-kill match against the Blue Devils, which made her just 1-of-13 players in the nation to record a 30-kill match during the regular season. Taylor along with sophomore outside hitter Lindsay Gehan earned all-tournament honors at Duke. At the Texas Invitational, Taylor again earned all-tournament honors along side sophomore outside hitter Erika Clark as the Bulldogs wrapped up non-conference play with a record of 7-4.

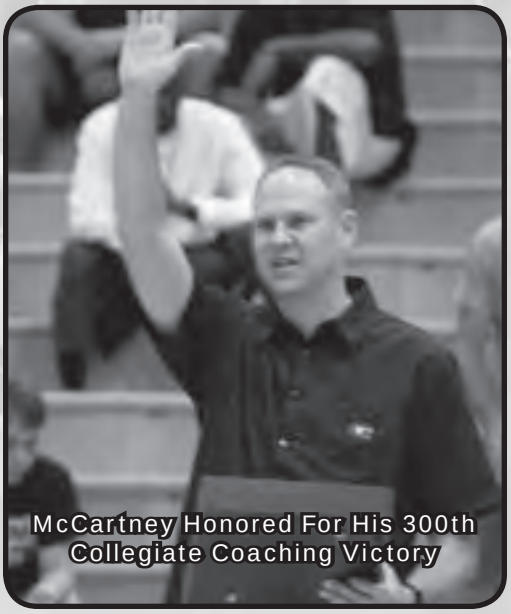
The conference slate did not start out the way the Bulldogs had planned dropping their first four matches. As the season unfolded, it became clear that those contests came against four of the top five teams in the league. Nevertheless, Georgia quickly rebounded to win its next match versus Arkansas behind Gehan, who was named SEC Offensive Player of the Week. That victory set Georgia on the right path as it would win seven out of eight matches including a streak of six straight. The six-consecutive SEC victories marked the longest league winning streak at UGA since 2003.

Undoubtedly, the highlight of the season was the final victory in that winning streak as Georgia upset the No. 8-ranked Florida Gators in Athens, 3-2. The win by the Bulldogs snapped a 45-match losing streak to the Gators, which dated back 18 years to October of 1990. Furthermore, the victory marked the first time Georgia had defeated a ranked opponent since Sept. 7, 1995. Prior to defeating Florida, the Bulldogs also posted a 3-2 win over South Carolina, and for their efforts in those matches Taylor and Gates earned weekly honors. Taylor earned her second SEC Offensive Player of the Week recognition of the season and was also named the Sports Imports/American Volleyball Coaches Association Division I National Player of the Week. Gates earned her first-career honor from the SEC as she was named Freshman of the Week.

The Bulldogs Celebrate Their Win Over Florida

While the remainder of the conference season from that point saw the Bulldogs go 3-5 and falling just shy of making a berth into the NCAA Tournament, Georgia still finished with 10 conference victories for the first time in five years. Both Taylor and Gates went on to earn postseason awards as well. Taylor was a unanimous second-team All-SEC selection for the second-consecutive season, while Gates was named to the All-SEC Freshman Team.

Gates was one of four freshmen, along with middle hitter Ann Dylla, libero Carla Tietz and defensive specialist Tomoka Matsuyama, who contributed significantly in 2008 as members of the Bulldogs' first-ever ranked recruiting class. Gates paced the offense with 1,128 assists (9.64 per set), while Dylla had 139 kills to go along with 110 blocks, which ranked second on the team. Adding to the defensive side of the net, Tietz led the team with 378 digs while Matsuyama provided 156 digs.



McCartney Honored For His 300th Collegiate Coaching Victory

Not to be outdone, Georgia returned five sophomores including a trio of starters in Clark, Gehan and Gonzalez. Clark nearly joined UGA's 300-300 club as she ranked second on the team with 288 kills and 367 digs. Gehan finished third in kills at 266 and also added 70 blocks, a category that Gonzalez led with 118 stops (1.01 per set). Gonzalez also contributed 220 kills. Fellow sophomores Simone May and Kelsey Burkett provided the Bulldogs with depth at outside hitter and defensive specialist, respectively. May played in nine matches recording nine kills, while Burkett saw action in 25 matches recording 46 digs and seven aces.

Georgia had two players careers come to a close in 2008, seniors Anjelica Partridge and Taylor. Partridge provided Georgia with depth at outside hitter playing in 15 matches and was named to the SEC Community Service Team for a second-straight year, while Taylor finished her career ranked as one of the best players in school and SEC history. Taylor finished her career ranked third at Georgia in attacks (4,517), points (2,020.0), fourth in kills (1,729), fifth in kills per set (3.97) and sixth in points per set (4.64).

McCartney finished his second-year at the helm of the Georgia program with a record of 34-27. His UGA winning-percentage of .557 is the second-best start to a Georgia coaching career after two seasons.
